Participation High In Member-Member

For the second year in a row, Member-Member Tournament participants experienced glorious weather in December as the sun shined brightly and temperatures climbed into the mid-seventies. The 2007 version saw the most participation ever with forty teams competing for prizes in both Men's and Women's Divisions. Twelve women's teams signed up, the most ever. Tournament organizers attempt to vary the format each year and the December 12 event was especially interesting. Teams played against par on the Love Course at 80% of combined handicap. The team that won the most holes against par prevailed. Two-man/woman teams teed off for a 10:00 am shotgun.

Winners Sanz and Simeon with Travis

Following golf, participants enjoyed a wonderful Pasta Bar complete with fettucine and penne pasta, chicken, meatballs, Italian sausage, mushrooms, onions, peppers with a choice of marinara and alfredo sauces. The pasta was complimented with tossed salad, garlic bread and a beverage of choice. Carrot cake topped off the meal.

Following food served in the Resort Clubhouse Banquet Room, awards were handed out by Tournament Director, Travis Dutcher to the tournament winners with prizes going to the top three finishers in both Men's and Women's Divisions. 2005 Men's Division Champs, Carlos Sanz and Allan Simeon, repeated as 2007 winners and Nancy Yanuzzi and Mary Ann Viverette posted first in the Women's Division. Each winning team received generous gift certificates to the Resort and Nike Pro Shops. Prizes were also awarded for Longest Drive and Closest to the Pin in both divisions. For the women, Alice Huryk won for Longest Drive on the 12th hole while Atissa Campbell won closest to the pin on the 3rd hole. For the men, Jim Schramek won Closest to the Pin on hole 15 and Carlos Gonzales hit the Longest Drive on hole 5. Winners for Longest Drive and Closest to the Pin received certificates for free golf at The Witch, The Wizard, Man 'O War and Burning Ridge Golf Courses. Tournament organizers wish to congratulate all winners and thank everyone who participated in this year's Member-Member Tournament.

Celebrate Anniversary of “Best New Resort Course”

Travel on February 21

Twenty-five years ago, Golf Digest Magazine initiated its prestigious “Best New” annual series of articles in which they name the creme de the crop in new course development and design. In 1983, their very first “Best New” article honored Oyster Bay Golf Links in Sunset Beach, NC as the “Best New Resort Course” in the country. In its January 2008 issue, Golf Digest commemorates the 25th Anniversary of the magazine’s ranking of “America’s Best New Courses” by traveling back to Oyster Bay and comparing today’s layout to the pleasant discovery featured back in 1983. The recent article entitled “The Big Picture” by Ron Whitten elaborates on Mr. Whitten’s current impression of Oyster Bay and I quote, “If time hasn’t stood still at Oyster Bay, it certainly has been in no hurry. The Dan Maples design still flows gracefully across the property with no excessive earthwork, the greens seem perfectly proportioned to the required shots, the bunkers have their crisp edges. Most of all, the place still has some gorgeous holes like the fifth, a postcard of guissied-up turf and boutonniere bunkers arm in arm with undisturbed marsh.” The writer goes on to say that Oyster Bay is representative of the direction golf architecture was headed back in 1983, a direction made most famous by Pete Dye and one that many architects have followed ever since. Whitten points out the two “island green” par threes on the back nine which are “a response” to Dye’s “death-or-glory” island seventeenth at TPC Sawgrass. Whitten also discusses Oyster Bay’s famous par 4 thirteenth with the vertical wall surrounding the elevated green above one of the beautiful fresh water lakes where Maples used a pile of concrete and oyster shells for his wall instead of the trademark Dye railroad ties.

Oyster Bay #13 - Par Four

Yes, even after 25 years, Oyster Bay still remains a fresh and interesting challenge amidst a backdrop of some of the most beautiful scenery one will find in this area. To celebrate this anniversary, Keith Devos, Head Pro at Oyster Bay, is offering our members a special rate of $40 for play on February 21. Tee times begin at 7:32 am. Sign up by calling the Pro Shop at 843-390-3200 by 12:00 noon, February 19. A strict 48-hour cancellation policy is in effect.

Golf Magazine Championship

Barefoot Resort & Golf is hosting the inaugural Golf Magazine Championship on March 3 and 4, 2008. The event will feature a half-day of instruction by five of the Top 100 Teachers in America as recognized by Golf Magazine, a golf clinic open to the public, both at the driving range, and a tournament round of golf on the Love Course on the second day with 36 two-man teams. There will be a post tournament reception and awards ceremony hosted by David

The Love Course is the setting for the Golf Magazine Championship

Feherty, prominent golf announcer, Golf Magazine columnist and Cobra Golf spokesperson. Dinner and cocktails will be served. Everyone has the opportunity to win a spot in this tournament by entering a contest drawing sponsored by Golf Magazine. Contest entry can be made at www.golf.com/gmchamp. More detailed itinerary and contest information can be found at this website. Even though the tournament is being held at Barefoot and there would be no airfare prize for locals, it appears that the event is so attractive that the contest entry process is worth the effort. Good luck!

Re-Opened Hummingbird Set For Travel on Jan. 17

You may recall that over a year ago we were reading reports about how the four-course Wild Wing complex located on Highway 501 toward Conway was going to join the growing group of golf courses on the Grand Strand succumbing to the bloat of real estate development. Of the four Wild Wing Courses, only the Avocet was to remain open for play. Well, the venerable Hummingbird Course destined for the development bulldozer is now making a little bit of a comeback. Wild Wing Staff alerted us in the middle of December that they were re-opening nine holes of Hummingbird and they wanted to offer a special deal to larger groups. They invited our Barefoot Members to play the nine holes twice for a very cheap $25. This is the perfect opportunity to revisit the holes that perhaps you didn't play so well and try to improve on them. And besides, you can't beat the $25 fee. Hummingbird always received high rankings from the Golf Digest “Places to Play” survey with 4 1/2 star rankings and was considered by Golf Digest writer Jim Moriarity as perhaps “the underrated gem of the entire Grand Strand.” Sign up for play by calling the Pro Shop at 843-390-3200 by January 15, 12:00 noon. A strict 48-hour cancellation policy is in effect.

Bradley School Welcomes Instructor Katie Allison

The Nick Bradley Golf School is pleased to announce the addition of instructor Katie Allison to the teaching staff. Members may have already encountered Katie since she has been handling some clinic teaching and individual instruction. Katie grew up in New Jersey and as an amateur won the New Jersey State Amateur Championship. She competed in three U.S. Amateur Competitions and while a member of her college team recorded five top ten finishes including one win. Katie started her professional career in 2004 by competing on the Duramed Futures Tour (feeder tour of the LPGA) and went on to compete in the LPGA Qualifying School that fall finishing in a tie for 12th place making her an exempt member of the LPGA Tour. During 2005, Katie made the cut in two Women's Major Championships including the U.S. Women's Open. Katie is currently an exempt member of the Duramed Futures Tour.

She has been a pupil of the Bradley School for about a year, therefore fitting in quite nicely with the Bradley School philosophy. Katie has a heightened interest in helping females become more proactive about their golf games. Although she has seen an increase in the number of women participating in golf, she believes there is the capability for tremendous growth in female involvement. Not only is Katie interested in helping women develop the correct fundamentals in the golf swing so that they can feel more confident on the course, she also wants them to learn proper etiquette.

Katie is available for both group and individual instruction and playing lessons. To contact Katie, call 207-264-4267. Of course, the Bradley Golf School Clinics continue on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 10:15 am on the Driving Range. Cost is $15 and no reservations are required.
